2. [redacted] have provided the following material for your use at the meeting.

-- AI has given you some talking points on the Cuban refugee problem in general, which includes current Cuban attitudes towards possible negotiations.

STAT

-- [redacted] provided you some suggestions on how the U.S. might deal with the return of the hard-core Cuban criminals being held in Georgia. As you recall, [redacted] memorandum was requested by the Vice President and has been forwarded to him.

STAT

-- AI's people have provided you copies of NID articles from the spring and summer of 1980 which cover the Mariel boatlift. (These were in your package last night.)

STAT

-- [redacted] pulled together for you a quite extensive package on Cuban government involvement in narcotics and arms smuggling. There is no direct connection between this and the "excludables" in the Georgia prison, but [redacted] mentioned that you had specifically asked for this information.

STAT

-- Finally, you have the report on the status of litigation on the imprisoned refugees in Georgia from [redacted]. His memorandum is based on information obtained from the Department of Justice.
